Keri and family...I've read that some in some cultures they believe that the place our spirit resides after death is actually right here with the living. Just on a different frequency like radio waves that are here, but can't be seen. That gave me peace when Granny died...just thinking of her right beside me. I hope that can give you all some peace too. Knowing that David is still there. His spirit is right there with you always. I love you all so very much.
