“ Joe, I can't believe you are gone...it will be 26 years on this Labor Day in San Diego that we met and fell in love, and from that day on never lost track of one another. Life didn't turn out the way we both thought it would for us but I suppose we both ended up where we were meant to be, like the song we talked about "Do You Remember"... I am crying as I write this, I should have come out in July when you asked me, you were so unhappy with the "situation", I can't help but think if I had come maybe things would have turned out different. Sweetheart I will forever miss your smiling face, I love you Joe always have always will. I carry your heart, I carry it in my heart. My prayers to Brandon and Natalie the loves of your life. Jamie

“ I've known Joe since elementary school, through high school in Newark, NJ. I remember when he enlisted in the Navy and I was so proud of him. I remember the day he called and told me he was going to have a baby..tears of joy in both of our eyes. His children were his world. We kept in touch throughout our lives. There are no words..I'm in shock...my heart is broken....you will always be my bff.....until we meet again. My deepest sympathy to Joe's family. He was such a beautiful person.....my heart aches for all of you.
